VOLUME XXXIX

OPERA HOUSE BLOCK, NORWAY, MAINE

George E. Horr.
George Edwin Horr, for many years a well known and efficient employee of the Grand Trunk railroad died at his home on Winter street, Thursday, Feb. 13th. Mr. Horr was the son of Nathan and Amelia (Wood) Horr, and was born Dec. 7, 1840. He remained on the farm until 20 years of age, receiving his education in the public schools of the town.
In 1860 he went to Island Pond, Vt., where he entered the service of the Grand Trunk railroad, working for them continuously until 1898. In 1898 he was promoted from engineer to locomotive foreman. In 1898 he retired from the town returning to Norway, where he has since resided.
Nov. 13, 1894, Mr. Horr married Dorothy M. Stevens, who survives. They had one son, Percy Windham, born in 1899. He died in 1899.
Mr. Horr was a member of the Universalist church, also of the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges and of Norway Grange, P. of H. Politically he was a Democrat.
During his residence in Island Pond, he was for two years selectman of the town.
The funeral services were held Sunday at 1:30 o'clock at the house, attended by Rev. S. G. Davis of the Universalist church. The Masons had charge of the services. They attended in a body as did the other orders of which Mr. Horr was a member. Besides a large attendance of nearby relatives and friends were present. Burial was in the cemetery at Island Pond, Vt., by John Thurston, Oliver DeSchaens, Charles Johnson, Capt. H. E. Randall and Hiram Farmer of Island Pond, Vt.; G. W. Norris of Somerville, Miss.; Mrs. Frank Rich, Derby, Vt.; Chas. N. Abbott of Bowdoin college, Brunswick; Mrs. Emma Bonney of Gorham, N. H.; Mrs. E. N. Abbott of Montreal. There are other relatives in Atlanta, Ga., and Boston, Mass., who were unable to attend.
There were quantities of beautiful flowers from the local orders, the clubs of which Mrs. Horr is a member and from the church, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and from friends here and away.

Arizona.
"Aitz na" was greeted with one of the largest houses of the season at Norway Opera House, Wednesday evening, every seat in the hall being taken. This was certainly complimentary to the manager and stage director, Chester E. Oelrich, under whose personal direction the play was staged, and showed that the people appreciated his former play by local talent, The Old Homestead.
Mr. Oelrich announced that about one in six weeks he proposed to stage a play with local players of Norway and South Paris as actors and actresses and he was good enough to say he had no doubt the two villages had talent to produce these masterpieces that he proposed to present. One of these is "The Christian".
Lieut. Denton, "the hero" in the part taken by himself, was a fine piece of acting. As the story runs, Capt. Leonard Hodgman, represented by Stuart Goodwin, was the sergeant in Eden, the man who trifled with the affections of the ladies of the post, and he won Lena Keller (Jeannie Mann), the sergeant's daughter, and Mrs. Estelle Bonham, the wife of his colonel, Frank Bonham (H. W. Harrill). The hero got wind of the event of an elopement, arrived in the nick of time and by force of arms made the villain change his plans, give up the lady's jewels she had entrusted to him and leave the house. But heavened himself by telling the jealous husband of the young wife that the hero was inside and he found him in hiding with the wife's jewels. He caught him apparently red handed, and here is where trouble began, and plenty of it. The hero was forced to resign from the army and he obtained work at the ranch of Henry Canby (Dr. A. H. Staples), the millionaire father of Mrs. Bonham and Miss Bonita (Sara Danforth). He and Bonita had found time in the course of events to fall in love and the love scenes were coy, intense and numerous.
Dr. Staples was made for the character that he assumed. The jolly, easy, shrewd business man of affairs. It was as smooth, easy and natural bit of acting as the Opera House has seen for many a day. He saw all that was going on by the house of the young people's part, though he was somewhat nagged by his sharp-tongued wife, (Mrs. Melville Sampson) the good soul, who could not endure the "goings on" of any kind of a party.
Well, they all got back to the post in the last act, where they started in act 1st, but there had been a bitterness and a quarrel when Col. Bonham and Capt. Hodgman met and at just that time the captain was shot. At the trial it was proven that Tony Mostano, (Fred Moore) the Mexican, the lover of the wronged Lena, had shot the villain, and the hero was the hero. The Col. and Mrs. Col. confessed and made up, and the hero and Bonita were happy ever after.
These were the leading characters and they were well supported by the rest of the company. The "knee action" of Sam Wong, the Chinese servant, (Harry Hill) brought smiles at each appearance. The clear enunciation of Dr. Fenlon (Walter Chaney) as well as his acting was noticeable.
Iza Pike, the pianist, had a slight ill attack but recovered and was able to go on with her good work on the piano.
The special scenery and electrical effects were appropriate and in good taste. The scene of the blue and gold drawing room gave a pretty effect.

An Open Letter to Music Lovers of Norway and Vicinity.
For some time I have been corresponding with a Boston Manager trying to obtain talent for my Annual Concert. The artists whom I wished to engage were so costly that I had decided to give up the idea of a Concert this year.
Last week, hearing that two of the artists were to be in Portland, I wired Boston offering a price for the two, arranging my date the night before the Portland Concert, should he accept. Somewhat to my surprise he accepted my terms and shall, therefore, have the pleasure of hearing Virginia Listmann, soprano, who, in a recital in Symphony Hall Boston, Mass., last Spring, aroused that severest of critics, Philip Hale, to enthusiasm.
The young violinist, Miss Nina Fletcher of Boston, has everywhere received greatest praise, playing in Portland twice this winter to packed houses.
As a fitting surrounding for these two, I shall have one of the best pianists in Boston, Mr. Warren G. Richards, and Mr. L. B. Galt, who made so favorable an impression last year.
Miss Fletcher brings her own accompanist assuring a smooth easable and Mr. Karl Tower will accompany the other artists.
Prices will be 50c. A very few choice seats 25c extra. All seats reserved.
Thanking you for past patronage, I beg to remain, very sincerely, F. E. Towser.

Oxford Park News.
Pedestrianism at the Park, Sunday, was confined to those who could manage snowshoes or wear rubber boots.
H. Upton is seriously ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. Wendall Wheeler.
Mrs. Dearborn of Gardiner has been at R. B. Walker's for a few days to take care of Mrs. Walker, who has been quite sick but is now convalescing. Mrs. Dearborn returned to her home in Gardiner and her daughter, Mrs. Maude Robinson, takes her place.
There will be a supper and entertainment at the Methodist church, Tuesday evening. There will be music by local talent and it is expected that Miss Buck of Portland will be the reader.

The selectmen give notice that they will be in session at the Assessor's office for the purpose of receiving names and correcting the list of voters on Saturday, the 29th day of February next.

Smith-Frost.
A very pretty wedding took place at the Baptist church, Saturday evening, Feb. 15, at 8 o'clock, when two of Norway's most estimable young people, Walter Cameron Smith and Viola M. Frost, were united in marriage by Rev. E. S. Cotton. The single ring service was used. Only the relatives and a friend of the bride, Alice Foster, were present. The bride was beautifully dressed in blue and white lace, with white trimmings and carried a bouquet of white carnation pinks. The groom was dressed in conventional black.
The church was very prettily and tastefully decorated with potted plants and pink, under the supervision of Rev. E. S. Cotton, and the ceremony was very beautiful and impressive. Their friends wish them a long life and much happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. James Faver went to Orono, Monday, to attend the wedding of Mrs. Faver's brother, Andrew J. Hayes, to Miss Prescott of Orono. Mr. Hayes is a civil engineer in Montana.
Members of the Young Men's Congress will please meet at office of C. P. Barnes at 7 o'clock sharp, Friday evening of this week. It is hoped that all former members will make an effort to present.
We hear the following names mentioned as candidates for selectmen: "The Old Board," which is composed of D. S. Sanborn, H. A. Robbins and H. F. Greenleaf.
A New Board, A. J. Stearns, or W. A. Bicknell, Geo. H. Dunn and Elton Brown. Nothing is being said in our hearing relative to the other town officers. To change the whole board of selectmen at any time is wrong. It never should be done. Put on one new man each year and let one retire and thus the interest of the town would be much better served. A complete new board of selectmen is wrong in principle and in practice, and the intelligence of the citizens of the town should not permit it.

W. R. C. Notes.

Thursday of last week several members of Harry Rust W. R. C. called on Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McAllister and gave them a severe pounding. Both have been ill for some time, yet strange to say, the pounding seemed to do them good.
In the evening the same parties invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Frost. No damage done but only lots of talking (as is the way with women). Although their coming was a complete surprise, they were received in a most gracious manner. The event of the evening were the selections on piano and violin by Misses Frost and Arthur Palmer of Roxbury, Mass. The solo, "Holy City," as sung by Miss Frost was greatly appreciated, as were the duets by Miss Frost and Mr. Palmer. Refreshments were served. All voted it a delightful evening and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Frost for the courtesy.
Friday evening, they gathered by invitation at the lovely new home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brooks, where a most pleasant social hour was spent. Mr. Palmer and Miss Frost kindly consented to again furnish music for entertainment. A nice treat was served during the evening. A cake walk was on the program but on account of illness one of the number failed to put in an appearance. Everybody had a jolly good time, even Ted Brooks, who gave voice to his pleasure several times during the evening. Where will they go next? Just "watch out" it may be your turn.

St. Valentine.
The T. R. Y. sewing club decided that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" and so requested the presence of St. Valentine on the evening of Feb. 14 at the home of Rev. B. S. Rideout. Eleven ladies gathered to greet his coming and filled the evening with merriment. First a game of Old Maid was played in which Maud Pike won the spoon and Josephine Stearns the degree O. M. The unraveling of a cobweb dis- played needle books in the shape of hearts for each guest.
The dining-room decorations were red crepe paper. Red hearts were scattered over the table and hung from the lamp shade. The place cards were white hearts with tiny rosebuds painted on them. The menu was:
Harebit Pickles Spring Water
Cheesestraws Watermelon Cakes Olives
Cocoas Oranges

While the harebit was being made, puzzles and descriptions were enjoyed. After refreshments each guest explored the mysteries of a note chain and at the end found a card suitable to her special characteristics. Then waltches was made. The evening closed with music before anyone could realize that the series was the longest evening was but a pleasant memory. Certainly no better party was enjoyed nor evening so quickly whirled away. Those present were Mrs. J. F. Swain, Genevieve Barker, Marion Smith, Florence Rideout, Maud Pike, Josephine Stearns, Mildred Holmes, Katherine Stone, Dorothy Tubbs, Grace Thibodeau, Janette Russell—Class No. 2 of the Congregational Sunday school.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture From backache, rheumatic pain, Any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, O., says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were uncolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional means. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever;
nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

WASH DAY IN A CHATEAU.

Mme. Waddington's Account of This Tremendous Event.

It was unfortunate perhaps that we had arrived during the "lessive." That is always a most important function in France, writes Mme. Waddington in Scribner's. In almost all the big houses in the country—small ones, too—that is the way they do their washing. Once a month or once every three months, according to the size of the establishment, the whole washing of the household is done. All the linen—master's, servants', guests', house—is turned out, the linen closets cleaned and aired. Every one looks busy and energetic. It is quite a long affair, lasts three or four days; I often went to see the performance when we made our "lessive" at the chateau every month.

It always interested our English and American friends, as the washing is never done in that way in either of their countries. It was very convenient at our place, as we had plenty of room. The "lavoir" stood at the top of the steps leading into the kitchen gardens. There was a large, square tank sunk in the ground so that the women could kneel to their work, then a little higher another of beautiful clear water, all under cover. Just across the path there was a small house with a blazing wood fire, in the middle an enormous tub where all the linen was passed through wood ashes.

"There were four 'lessiveuses' (wash-erwomen), sturdy peasant women with very short skirts, sabots and turbans (made of blue and white checked calico) on their heads, their strong red arms bared above the elbow. The Mere Michon, the eldest of the four, directed everything and kept them well at work, allowing very little talking. They generally chatter when they are washing and very often quarrel. When they are washing at the public 'lavoir' in the village, one hears their shrill voices from a great distance. Our 'lingere,' Mme. Hubert, superintended the whole operation. She was very kind about it and remonstrated vigorously when they slapped the linen too hard sometimes with the little flat sticks like spades they use. The linen all came out beautifully white and smooth, hadn't the yellow look that all city washed clothes have.

A GREAT BEAUTIFIER.
Laugh and Give Your Nerves a Holiday.
There is no doubt that laughter is a great beautifier, and so, too, is relaxation," says a New Zealand exchange. "Indeed it is marvelous how some women manage to perform their various duties at all without ever giving their nerves a holiday by relaxing them. As they go on day after day the worried minds seem to twist the nerves until they are tense and strained, like the spring of a clock that is kept tightly wound up. The tension shows in the face, which grows sharp and thin; in the voice, which becomes querulous and loud tempered, and in the manners, which become hurried, abrupt and disconcerting. Women who have allowed themselves to sink into such a condition usually complain that they have no time to rest. As a matter of fact, they have lost the power of resting and simply must be doing something. They seem to be afflicted with the disease of perpetual motion, and if they could only realize it are rapidly wasting their nervous strength and preparing for a physical break-down. This is plain speaking, but only plain speaking will make some women stop their suicidal folly and take themselves well in hand. They may think that they have no time to rest, but the housework, the cooking, washing, cleaning, ironing, mending, must be done day by day or else their world will come to an end. But there is no housework under the sun that cannot be rearranged in such a way that a weary and worn woman may lie down twenty minutes and rest at some time during the day. And if she cannot see her way to rearranging her work then she must let some one of it go. There are no two questions about it. We cannot juggle with our health, we women. Either the work must go or we must. And there is no work of ours that another woman cannot step in and do quite as well—perhaps better. This sounds hard, but it is true. So when we find that our passion for doing things is sapping strength of body and elasticity of mind, let us stop and consider whether it is, after all, worth sacrificing health, happiness and good looks for—a bed or a padded cell in a hospital.

Quilt From Extra Cuffs.
Women whose husbands do not wear the extra cuffs which come with almost every shirt can make good use of them by cutting off at buttonhole edge and also at length, then pulling them apart, and you will have two colored or figured pieces and one plain white piece (sometimes two) from the inside of the cuff. By sewing these pieces together and using a little judgment you will have a pretty and durable quilt, as almost all shirts wash well. It does not take long to save enough, as you have six and sometimes eight pieces from a pair of cuffs.

Wastes of Human Life.
There are four wastes of human life preventable and largely unnecessary. These wastes are preventable death, preventable sickness, preventable conditions of low physical and mental efficiency and preventable ignorance. The last named, ignorance, is responsible in large part for the others.—Woman's Medical Journal.

For Mothers.
Don't forget that you are or ought to be your children's ideal of all that is perfection and that it is your duty to live up to their ideals in every possible

Women whose husbands do not wear the extra cuffs which come with almost every shirt can make good use of them by cutting off at buttonhole edge and also at length, then pulling them apart, and you will have two colored or figured pieces and one plain white piece (sometimes two) from the inside of the cuff. By sewing these pieces together and using a little judgment you will have a pretty and durable quilt, as almost all shirts wash well. It does not take long to save enough, as you have six and sometimes eight pieces from a pair of cuffs.

Wastes of Human Life.
There are four wastes of human life preventable and largely unnecessary. These wastes are preventable death, preventable sickness, preventable conditions of low physical and mental efficiency and preventable ignorance. The last named, ignorance, is responsible in large part for the others.—Woman's Medical Journal.

SEEDLESS TOMATOES.

A Medium Small Variety With Flesh of Particularly Fine Flavor
 The production of any vegetable notably always arouses interest among seed growers and gardeners. More or less of this work has been done by the experiment stations. For a number of years breeding experiments with vegetables have been carried on by Professor Halsted and his associates at the New Jersey experiment stations. Among the distinct and valuable productions secured in this work is a nearly seedless tomato. As is well known, each fruit of the ordinary tomato contains hundreds of seeds, while the form which Professor Halsted has developed seldom contains more than fifty seeds, and frequently there are not more than five or six and often none.

This variety has become pretty well established now and has been called Giant because of the very large size that the plant attains. It originated five or six years ago as a result of a cross of Golden Sunrise upon Dwarf Champion.

The flower clusters are small; flowers cup shaped, light lemon yellow, and the fruits few, medium small, light yellow and nearly seedless. The flesh is particularly fine flavored. The plants flowered up to the killing frosts.

The type appears to be well fixed. Attempts to cross other sorts upon it have uniformly failed. Seedless fruits have also been produced by Professors Halsted and his associates at the New Jersey experiment stations. The fruits of tomatoes, due probably primarily to nonpollination with other conditions favorable to the stimulation of fruit production.

These crosses were quite uniformly dwarfed in size, many in a cluster being not larger than peas, but solid fleshed and often of good quality. In one instance the fruit had the flavor of the strawberry. Currant crossed upon Stone produced such fruit; likewise Crimson Cushion upon Sumatra. When Crimson Cushion was crossed upon Giant and Magnus many seedless fruits were produced, some of which were large enough for table use.

The work with seedless tomatoes is being continued and promises to result in the establishment of varieties with far less seeds than the sorts commonly grown.

Rotting of Potatoes.
 The rotting of potatoes in storage is often a source of serious loss. The infection of the potatoes with the fungus occurs chiefly if not entirely in the field, before digging. The infection is usually the result of diseased vines. The disease is transmitted in the majority of cases not directly through the vine, but indirectly through the soil. Potatoes may be infected directly in the field from spores introduced in the manure or from rotten potatoes spread upon or left in the land the preceding year.—C. D. Woods.

Productive Potatoes.
 In a comparison of twenty-five varieties of potatoes Climax, Chenango White, Hammond Wonderful and Simpson Model ranked first in productivity, with yields in excess of 200 bushels of merchantable tubers per acre.—Massachusetts.

How to Amuse Children.
 A quiet, rainy day game for children old enough to read is to cut out all the animals and birds you can find; then write the names of each on small slips of paper, let the children have one corner of the room for a playground, and let them place all the animals on the floor; then find the name of each one. It will not only amuse them for hours, but they will soon learn to know all the different kinds of animals and birds. Give them crayons and let them color them.

How to Fireproof Curtains.
 To make curtains fireproof procure some tungstate of soda and make a weak solution of it with warm water. After washing the curtains, etc., just dip them into this and dry as usual.

A Double Slopement.
 By ANNE HEILMAN.
 Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Hester Blake finished sweeping the snow from her front porch and then looked dubiously at the huge drifts lying across the road and the slaty sky above.

"They won't come," she assured herself. "Cousin Emma'll never venture out such a day as this. It'll be the first Christmas I've ever spent alone." She sighed unconsciously as she re-entered the silent house.

Mrs. Blake lived in the outskirts of the village of Clifton. She kept a boy to do the chores, had a cow and chickens and lived in a comfortable way on a tiny income. She was "Aunt Hester" to all the young people of her acquaintance, which was considerable, for she was popular, this worn woman of fifty. Her sad blue eyes and faded brown hair had a compelling charm even under the rusty black hat which she wore in winter and summer alike, and when she smiled your heart went out to her. You could have told her your most intimate troubles, sure of her understanding and sympathy and that the confidence would go no further.

The bright, shiny little kitchen had the incipient smells of good things for dinner in it, and Mrs. Blake set to adding yet another savory odor.

"Might as well finish getting the dinner now I've started it," ran on her low monotone. She talked to herself for company. "Mercy me—sleigh bells!" hastily opening the door. "Charlie Brock and Elvie Lee of all people! Hurry in and I'll get you some hot coffee. It'll heat you up. Why, Elvie, what was your father thinking of to let you ride out in such weather?" "Father doesn't know anything about it," faltered Elvie miserably.

Mrs. Blake's glance went from one to the other as she poured the steaming coffee. There were little humorous, indulgent creases in her face. "You are running away," she said.

Elvira hung her head and began to cry. "Don't scold her, Aunt Hester," burst out Charlie. "It wasn't her fault. I asked her to go."

"Well, what's she crying about?" questioned Mrs. Blake severely. "Didn't she consent, or did you carry her away by force, Charlie?"

"Of course he didn't," protested Elvira. "I said I'd go, but I wish I hadn't. I was sorry right after we'd started, and I—I made Charlie stop here instead of going to the minister's. I ought to go back home. I know father'll be worried." And her lip began to quiver again.

"Well, he won't be worried long," said Charlie, turning from the window. "He's coming down the road now." Elvira sprang to her feet.

"Don't let him come in, Aunt Hester!" she cried excitedly. "He'll be mad at Charlie!"

"Let him!" fiercely from Charlie. "I don't know's I care."

"Don't say anything hateful to him," pleaded the girl piteously, "will you, Charlie?"

"Don't worry, Elvie," replied the boy soothingly. "I won't hurt him."

"I didn't mean that!" cried Elvie, trembling and clinging to him. "I don't want him to hurt you!"

"Would you care, Elvie?" Elvira sobbed hysterically, her face against his coat.

"Of course I'd care"—in muffled tones—"you know I'd care."

Meanwhile Mrs. Blake watched the floundering horse far down the road. "He'll be here directly," she warned. "You'd better get back."

But Elvie went to run away, she waited, still clinging to her lover.

Over her head Charlie looked with despairing eyes at the older woman. With swift determination to help him, she took the girl's trembling hands in hers. "Elvie," she demanded, "do you love Charlie Brock?"

"Of course I do," answered Elvie, looking at her in surprise.

"Well, then, I don't know's I ought to advise it, but your mother's right, and your pe'll never let you marry Charlie, because he's too poor, but that's no reason for separating young hearts."

You've both got love and health and strength, and Elvie, you're young and ought to know your own mind, and if you love Charlie and ain't got the courage to stand up in front of the minister, why, just stay here and let your father take you back home. But if you want to marry him you'll go now and have the words said before your father can pull his horse out of the drift, and I'll get my wraps and go with you."

As she disappeared into the adjoining room Elvie looked up into her lover's face. "It'll do it, Charlie," she whispered. "Aunt Hester's right. She always is. I'll go—wherever you go."

"On second thoughts I've determined to stay and have it out with the squire," said Mrs. Blake as she hustled the young people out to the cutter and wrapped a warm rug around the trembling girl. "Don't worry, Elvie. I'll make it all right with your father. Mind you come straight back here for your dinner," she urged smilingly as they drove rapidly away.

business not to let Elvira spoil her life as you spoiled yours, for you ain't been happy any more'n I have. I ain't sayin' that Elvie's mother wa'n't a good woman, but the Lord makes two people for each other and puts them into this world to meet and marry and die together, and if they go against his plan'nin' they suffer."

He started eagerly to speak, but she went on rapidly.

"I didn't have enough money for you, and you shilly shalled between me and Lida and finally married her without sayin' a word to any one, and so at last I married Isaac. He was a good husband." A sudden impulse of loyalty toward the dead surged within her.

"Hetty," a joyous warmth breaking into the squire's voice—"Hetty, you said you said 'any more'n you were.' Do you mean that you've cared, too, all these years? Have you, Hetty?" with compelling eyes on hers.

"Yes," she answered simply. "I've cared. And there hasn't been a day in all these years when I've seen you growing harder and harder that I ain't said to myself, 'He'd be different if he'd married the woman he loved.' Elvie's just like you. She'd keep Charlie off and on, and some day she'd go and marry somebody else and be miserable."

"I didn't mean her to be miserable," the squire stammered slowly. A great wonder held him fast. Was this the quiet, self-repressed woman who all these years had sat across the aisle from him every Sunday morning in church, this slender, vibrant creature trembling in the might of her demand for happiness for his motherless girl? Was this the woman whom he had believed without feeling?

"Hetty!" he cried and held out his hand. She took it and stood looking sadly up at him.

"Hetty, I didn't think you cared in that way. I thought you hated me for the way I'd treated you after going with you for two years. I never thought you missed me as I've missed you all these years. I'd give them all only to live over the two happy years when we kept company. How different!"

"You've remembered!" the widow cried, and her cheeks flushed. "I'm very lonesome here, Samuel, but I won't be any more when I know you've remembered. Now go out and put up your horse. Tommy's away for the holidays, and I'm all alone."

The young folks are coming back here for dinner, and you must join us, sociable like, and forgive them for runnin' away."

"Hetty," pleaded the squire, the light of determination in his eyes. "Let's run away too! My horse is better'n Charlie's. We'll get to the parsonage most as quick as they do. Here, put on your wraps!" he commanded.

"No, no, Samuel!"—her face flaming—"not after the way I talked. It looks as though I was bluin'!"

"We've wasted altogether too much time already, Hetty. Put this scarf over your ears. It's too cold for a bunnet."

"Oh, Samuel, we're too old to be so foolish!" she faltered.

"We're not too old to love," he assured her as he tied on the scarf.

Happiness.
 Many people go through life dissatisfied and unhappy because they do not have what their neighbors have. They allow themselves to be constantly netted by comparing themselves with others better off.

Now, about as poor business as one can engage in is to go through life with one's eyes so fixed upon what others have that he cannot enjoy his own.

Everywhere we see prosperous people who are making a great deal of money, and yet they are dissatisfied, discontented, unhappy, restless. They grope about from place to place, trying to find pleasure in this thing or that, but always disappointed. They think if they could only get something else than what they are doing, if they could only go abroad, travel over different countries in a touring car or in an automobile, they would be happy. Their eyes are always focused upon something in dreamland instead of something in the land of reality.

They mistake the very nature of happiness. They put the emphasis on the wrong things.

The secret of happiness is not in your fortune, but in your heart. It does not consist of having, but in being. It is a condition of mind.—Success Magazine.

Highly salted and smoked herrings, haddock, mackerel or other fish are greatly improved if they are laid overnight to soak in a little sour milk. This effectually draws out the salt, besides considerably improving the flavor of the fish and making it less smoked and highly seasoned.

Saved From Being a Cripple For Life.

"Almost six or seven weeks ago I became paralyzed all over at once with rheumatism," writes Mrs. Louis McKay, 913 Seventh Street, Oakland, Cal. "It struck me in the back and extended from the hip of my right leg down to my foot. The attack was so severe that I could not move in bed and was afraid that I should be a cripple for life."

"About twelve years ago I received a sample bottle of your Liniment but never had occasion to use it, as I have always been well, but something told me that Sloan's Liniment would help me, so I tried it. After the second application I could get up out of bed, and in three days could walk, and now feel well and entirely free from pain."

"My friends were very much surprised at my rapid recovery and I was only too glad to tell them that Sloan's Liniment was the only medicine I used."

"Yes, it was, Samuel. It was my

PLANT FOODS.

Farmer's Opportunity to Save on the Fertilizer Bill.
 By R. J. DAVIDSON, Virginia experiment station.
 The elements necessary to the growth of plants may be divided into the following groups:

First.—Those that are furnished in abundance from air and water.
 Second.—Those which are furnished in abundance from the soil.

Third.—Those which are not usually furnished in abundance in an available form from air, water or soil, as nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Nitrogen is found in large quantities, chiefly in the uncombined or free state. It constitutes about four-fifths of our atmosphere. In this form it is only available to leguminous plants, such as peas, beans, clover, alfalfa, etc., through the influence of micro-organisms found in soils and living in nodules on the roots of plants of this family.

In the case of all other plants the nitrogen is taken in only in combination with other elements. Combined with hydrogen it forms ammonia, which may be taken up in small quantities. With oxygen it forms nitric acid, and this combined with some elements in the soil forms nitrates. These are readily taken up by plants and form the principal source of the plant's nitrogen.

Expensive to Purchase.
 Nitrogen is the most expensive element the farmer has to purchase. It costs at least three times as much as the phosphorus or potassium. It is also the element most likely to be deficient in the soil, as it is readily converted into soluble nitrates and in addition is being used up by plants is sometimes leached out of the soil. There is a large quantity of free nitrogen in the air. By growing leguminous crops we can obtain a portion of this nitrogen and store it up in the soil in fixed and available forms in the roots and stubble or in the whole crop turned under. We can thus repair in large measure the loss to the soil of this element without any cost and in addition obtain an excellent food for stock in the form of clover hay, alfalfa hay, etc. It will thus be seen how important it is for the farmer to grow one of more of these nitrogen gathering crops on his land as often as his system of rotation will permit and thus save purchasing this most expensive element of plant food. It is poor economy to buy what we can have for the taking, especially when the taking costs nothing.

Glasses which have held milk should never be washed in warm water while the dregs of the milk cling around the edges. If the glass is first rinsed out in cold water, it can then be washed safely in warm water in the usual way.

It is only the great hearted who can be true friends; the mean and cowardly can never know what true friendship means.—Home Notes.

Does Not Color Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, does not stain or color the hair even to the slightest degree. Gray hair, white hair, blonde hair is not made a shade darker. But it certainly does stop falling hair. No question about that.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Indeed, we believe it will stop every case of falling hair unless there is some very unusual complication, something greatly affecting the general health. Then you should consult your physician. Also ask him about the new Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Farm, Field and Garden

FARM GATE.

It Swings Lightly, Without Sagging, if Properly Built.

The principle of hinge hanging may not be new, but I have never seen another of such light skeleton build as our nonsagging cattle gate shown in the drawing. The material used for its construction is generally to be found on every farm, so that all the usual necessary expense is that of having the blacksmith make the hook and eye hinge for the top of the gate, the lower hinge being merely an iron pin inserted in an upright end piece and set into a block at the base of the post, making the cost of construction very light.

The top and bottom boards are 1 by 6 inches and sixteen feet long. The hinge end upright is 4 by 4 inches and ten feet long, and the latch end is 3 by 4 inches and four and one-half feet long. The braces are all of 1 by 6 inch stuff.

When this gate is intended to turn other stock than cattle and horses, either woven or barbed wire, the former preferable, is stretched over the frame tightly and secured with staples.

To hang the gate bore a hole in the bottom of the hinge end upright and drive in a three-fourths or one inch iron pin that when set will project about four inches from the bottom. This is inserted into the block shown at the ground line spiked to the post, first screwing or spiking on an iron plate, with hole to match size of pin, to prevent wear and waste of iron. A similar plate should also be fastened to bottom of upright for the same purpose.

The top hinge is made of a three-fourths inch rod, one end a hook, the other an eyebolt, with threaded ends, explains a writer in Farm and Fire-side. Nail a substantial brace on the top of the gatepost and to a post set solidly in the ground in line with the fence (or a heavy twisted wire will serve the same purpose) to hold the post firm against weight of gate, and it will swing lightly and easily, remaining for years without sagging, provided the post is properly set.

Snow For Poultry.

The possibility of lessening the labor of caring for poultry by supplying snow instead of water has been studied at the Connecticut Storrs experiment station by C. K. Graham. When pullets and hens were fed wheat screenings and beef scrap from hoppers in colony houses on low ground frozen during most of the experimental period and covered with snow during part of the time the old hens did not furnish as many eggs or appear to be in as good condition as the younger birds.

The old hens were apparently affected by the snow, the egg production being smaller on the days when snow was on the ground and also considerably less when the ground was frozen—that is, on the cold days when water was not accessible. These conditions do not seem to have affected the younger birds, and they show an increase in eggs immediately after each snowstorm, gradually dropping back as the snow disappears.

In the case of other lots kept under much the same conditions in houses on higher and drier ground the cold weather did not affect the egg production materially, "but there was a noticeable increase in the amount of grain eaten during the cold weeks when comparison is made with the very mild ones. This, however, may have been caused by the birds foraging more during the milder periods. These birds did not appear to mind the cold, and there was not the slightest sign of frosted combs among them, nor were there any colds."

Texas Grows Oranges.

Southwest and southern Texas is this year entering for the first time into the orange market of the country, says a writer in Farm and Ranch. Satsuma oranges are being shipped in quantities and are yielding big returns. A few Satsumas are grafted upon the Citrus trifoliata, originally imported from Japan and used as hedges. This tree, being deciduous, makes the fall of sap in cold weather overcome the danger from frost which the orange tree as an evergreen otherwise suffers. Satsuma oranges have been grown successfully in a latitude fifty miles north of San Antonio. Groves are being planted over this section, and southwest Texas is preparing to compete with California and Florida in the orange business.

Modern Oiled Roads.

It somewhat appears that our whole country is soon to be made available through roads constructed by what some one has dubbed the petrolytic process, says the Los Angeles Times.

In riding over a country road a few days ago a chauffeur was heard to remark, "I have driven over all kinds of roads, but that sausage machine roller beats down the best surface I ever traveled over." Judging by the mileage now under construction by this process, it would appear that the general public heartily indorses the opinion of the driver quoted.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Reception Tendered Rev. Edwin A. Rumball.

A notable event, incidental to the last week's stay here of Rev. Edwin A. Rumball and family, was the pleasant reception tendered them by a large number of men, women and young people residing in the two nearby villages and the rural neighborhoods on Thursday evening, Feb. 13. It was an impromptu affair managed by the good women of the Union parish, having also the concurrence of subservient husbands, and took the form of a popular reception and banquet.

Grange hall was the scene of the assemblage and its object was to express in convenient manner the warm regard of our people for their esteemed pastor and his wife. As anticipated it was a happy success, truly an ovation of love and grateful appreciation of the pastoral services and devotion to his professional duties of the retiring minister during the two years past in this town.

After more than an hour of lively interchange of greetings and conversation, which had been decorated with sprays of evergreen, a program of the retiring minister was presented during the two years past in this town.

Your Duty is to be Well.

But you cannot be well if you neglect taking Hood's Sarsaparilla when you know you should take it. Impure blood, poor appetite, headache, nervousness, that tired feeling—by these and other signs your system demands Hood's. Get a bottle today.

Glow of Health.—My blood was very poor. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have more color in my face, sleep and eat well, and work is a pleasure. Mrs. A. A. Howard, Tanton, Mass.

In Worst Form.—I had catarrh in the worst form and was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took seven bottles and am now in good health. I hope everyone who has catarrh will give Hood's a fair trial. Mrs. William Mervatt, Parkersburg, Pa.

Always Praise.—I first took Hood's Sarsaparilla 13 years ago, and always speak in favor of it. H. Cowell, 237 Ferry Street, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold everywhere. In the usual liquid, or in tablet form called Sarsatabs. 10 Doses One Dollar. Prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

Do Not Neglect a Citizen's Duty.

Town meeting day will soon be here and it is important that each and every voter in this good old town of Woodstock should assemble at the town hall and express his opinion on town affairs. We do not half appreciate this privilege of ours. It is so easy to stay at home and let the "other fellow" do the business. Let us remember that the future of this town will be just what its citizens choose to make it. We have one of the best little towns in Maine and it is our duty as citizens to keep it so. Her husband, Rev. H. A. Pease, officiated, using the ring service. Only intimate friends of the family were present.

Mrs. Roscoe N. Moulton has lived all her life in this village. She is a graduate of Parsonsfield seminary and has taught several terms of school. Possessor of an unusually sweet disposition, she endeavored herself to everyone around her, and while congratulations to Mr. Moulton were in order they are tempered with regret that Virginia is so many miles away.

EAST SUMNER.

Union Grange.

At a recent meeting of Union grange, No. 80, Eunice S. Foster, the only Sister of the grange, read the following charter members, read in part:

"Let us turn back memory's pages thirty years or more. A few of us can remember the grange as it was then. Thirty-three years ago the 30th of Dec., Union grange was organized by Charles Co. of East Sumner with thirty-four charter members. The first master was Samuel McKenney; the first overseer, L. B. Bisbee; first lecturer, A. J. Robinson; first chaplain, Horace Bartlett; first secretary, B. F. Cary. Then we did not have a grange home of our own and our meetings were held in the Good Templars' hall. Only two members were ever expelled. Though many have gone to join the grange about a few have left us for homes elsewhere."

Runaway at Canton.

Minnie Carter went to Canton one day this week and hitched her horse in the horse shed and there being a barrel there it rolled down and fastened the horse, and he jumped back, pulled the halter off over his head and away he went sleigh and all.

He ran out to the butter factory and was captured and taken back with nothing harmed or broken. Mrs. Carter took him and drove home alone. Her courage was good as he was a large, strong colt.

BOLSTER'S MILLS.

Marjorie Scribner entertained a few of her schoolmates, the 14th, at a valentine party.

Mrs. Charles Skillings went to Portland, last week, to attend the funeral of a cousin.

Harriet and Josephine Mains are at their home after being away the greater part of the winter.

We neglected in reporting the close of school to give the names of the pupils who were not absent for the term, viz.: In the grammar grade, Donald Wight and Louis Wight; in the primary grade, Madeline Edwards and Norman Mills. Evelyn Wight was absent only one half day, and Theodore Moore, Norton Jilison and Philip Noble, each two days owing to illness in every case.

Wednesday evening, the 12th, classmates and friends of Sumner Skillings gathered at his home by previous invitation of Mrs. Skillings to celebrate his fiftieth birthday. The party was a surprise to Mr. Skillings, as was also the gift of a traveller's companion which was purchased by his friends and presented to him in a neat little speech by Ernest Gay. Games, social chat and a few choice songs occupied the time till a late hour. Mrs. Skillings served a fine lunch to her guests. To the few classmates who live near and were privileged to be present the occasion was especially pleasant, recalling many happy incidents of school life.

Your correspondent called on Frank Emery of Lovell a short time ago and took a look into his barn to see his nice herd of cows, thirteen in number, we believe. They are extra nice ones. Frank, or rather his better half, makes butter and sells it at a high price. Mrs. Emery knows just how to make it all of her customers will testify. We wish to speak of another thrifty farmer of West Bridgton, John Pillsbury. He is wintering about thirty head of cattle. A part of them are short horn Durhams. He has a yoke of four years old cattle that measure 7 ft., 3 in. It will take $200 to buy them.

IT BRIGHTENS the home as nothing else will do, by renewing the finish of furniture and woodwork. It is highly beneficial to the finest finish, even that of a $1,000 Piano, and its price is low enough to admit of its use on the cheapest, down to a 50c kitchen chair. It will improve the most beautiful furniture, including Mahogany, Rosewood, Golden Oak, White Enamel, Gilt, Silver.

Equally well adapted to any color paint.

Liquid Veneer is not a varnish but a surface food and cleaner. It removes scratches, stains, dirt and dullness. Applied with cheese cloth. Leaves no coating or streaks and is not inflammable.

It nourishes and builds up the finish instead of ultimately destroying it as do all preparations containing benzine or similar ingredients. Test Liquid Veneer for yourself; it will not ignite. It is wonderful for dusting. Try it and you will always buy it.

The Calico Ball.

The fifth annual Calico Ball of the Ladies Veranda Club, held at the Norway Opera House, Friday evening, was the most successful yet, of these yearly events.

The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Gullman and followed by the sides, William G. Cole, Alton Curtis, Horace Cole, Herbert Bradbury, and ladies. There were some ninety couples on the grand march and more came on for the other dances. Music was furnished by Stearns' Orchestra. At intermission ice cream and cake was served. Mrs. Maggie Libby being chairman of the committee. There were quite a number of guests from out of town. The gowns this year showed that many of them had been planned especially for this occasion and many pretty ones were seen.

There was a good many lookers on in the gallery and in every way the ball was a very pleasant and successful affair.

"Good afternoon," said Mrs. Naggy with icy politeness, to her next door neighbor. "Would you mind not looking out when my visitors are passing? It makes the place look vulgar."

"Thought they were brokers' men," replied Mrs. Snapp pleasantly. "You and your sister, or charwoman, or whatever she is, are not the kind that men visitors run after much, are you?"

"Better than some people whose 'usbins have run away from them," observed her neighbor.

"When I became a thief, ma'am, I'll steal something that's clean."

"Well, I must go," said Mrs. Naggy cordially. "I wish I could stop, but I've got to call on a lady."

"And so, of course, you feel awkward. Going to ask for a place as cook, perhaps. Well, I shan't keep you, ma'am. Good evening!"—London Scraps.

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O is Used

Sudden Deaths, Heart Failure and Paralysis Are Caused By Poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acids.

The Rheumatic person is skeptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and one can scarcely blame him for being so. All the plasterers and balms combined never actually cured a case of Rheumatism. They may relieve it in one quarter, but it is bound to return in the other three-quarters. The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to drive it from the system, for as long as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the Uric-O comes in. It seeks out the Rheumatic poison in the blood, muscles, and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. That is why Uric-O is such an admirable and effective cure for Rheumatism.

The chief reason that Uric-O is such a wonderful cure for Rheumatism is, that it is designed and prepared to cure Rheumatism and Rheumatism only. It is composed of perfect antidotes for the rheumatic acid poison in the system. That is the secret of its wonderful success. Rheumatism simply cannot exist in a person's system if Uric-O is used.

Uric-O is sold by druggists at 75c and $1.00 the bottle, but if you still feel skeptical about its efficacy you can test it free of charge by cutting out this advertisement and sending same together with your name and address, also the name of your druggist to the Smith Drug Co., 25 South Bridge, Syracuse, N. Y., and they will send you an order on the dealer for a 75-cent bottle free.

Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Norway by Noyes Drug Store.

MODEL ROCK ROAD.

First Strip Constructed in Wisconsin Under Direction of U. S. Engineers.

There has recently been completed in Rock County, Wis., the first strip of road built under the supervision of United States engineers since Wisconsin emerged from a territory into the dignity of statehood, says a Janesville (Wis.) correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Incidentally it is the first model road to be constructed in Wisconsin on rural roads with proper machinery on rules laid down by the government. This strip of road is three-quarters of a mile in length and lies a half mile east of Clinton, in the township of that name.

When the county board met last spring the towns of Clinton, Plymouth, Center, Fulton, Bradford, Beloit and Milton all appropriated sums ranging from $400 to $1,000 for the construction of good roads. According to the state law, the county board was of necessity forced to appropriate from county funds an equal sum for each town equal to their appropriation.

Just at this time Samuel C. Lancaster of the bureau of good roads at Washington spoke before the state legislature, and Mr. Hotchkiss, secretary of the state good roads movement, prevailed upon him to visit Rock County as the only county in the state which had appropriations for the purpose. His visit resulted in the good roads bureau at Washington being prevailed upon to send a complete set of road building machinery and engineers to construct three-quarters of a mile of model road as an example for the rest of the county to follow.

While the cost of the road ran over the $2,000 appropriated, this was due to high prices of material and long hauls and can be easily overcome in future roads.

The road is built with a twelve foot crown or macadam center. The rock bed is eight inches deep, the stone being crushed from a thickness of four to eight inches. The regular macadam process was used. A layer of coarse rock four inches thick was first laid, then a layer of thinner rock placed in the cracks and rolled down thoroughly.

The question of drainage for the road was carefully looked to. Side ditches and culverts were placed where water was liable to do serious damage by washing, and attention was paid to the formation of the land through which the road runs.

The government outfit used consisted of a portable stone crusher, a revolving sieve, which separates the rock after being crushed; bins, a steam roller, a sprinkler wagon, scrapers and dumping wagons. The type of wagons used has an adjustable box allowing the rear end to be tilted down close to the ground so that an even distribution of the crushed stone is obtained.

oughly, these latter being stones that would pass through a one and a half inch space and were laid three inches deep. A surface dressing of screenings one inch thick was then laid and the whole watered and rolled hard and firm. The crown or surface of the road has a curvature of three-fourths of an inch to the foot, giving good drainage.

MILITARY ROAD FOR KANSAS.

First Steps Taken For a One Hundred and Twenty Miles Pike.

Representative D. R. Anthony, who recently returned to Kansas from the east, while in Washington talked over preliminary plans for the building of the proposed military road between Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, says the Kansas City Times. At his request a road engineer of the public roads bureau is to be sent on to make an investigation and prepare detailed plans of the road. The engineer is to report in time for action by congress the coming winter.

"The prospects for the government favoring the building of the proposed military highway between Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley are very bright," said Mr. Anthony. "The director of public roads, which is the bureau connected with the department of agriculture, assures me that the plan to build this 120 mile highway connecting the greatest army posts in the country is heartily favored. They believe the construction of this road would be a great object lesson in the building of modern highways, which mean so much in the way of affording an accessible medium for the farmer in hauling his crops to market."

Cost of Good Roads.

The commissioners of Chester county, Pa., recently received bills from the Pennsylvania state highway department for improvements made on certain public roads in various townships of the county, as follows: Westtown, $15,008.31; Schuylkill, $28,863; Valley, $11,996.33; Ayondale borough, $7,599.94. These amounts cover the contract price, the extras, the inspection, the engineering and surveying, etc. The state pays two-thirds of the expense, the county pays one-sixth, and the township pays one-sixth.

This woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her life. Read her letter.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For years I suffered with the worst forms of female complaints, continually doctoring and spending lots of money for medicine without help. I wrote you for advice, followed it as directed, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I should have been in my grave to-day. I wish every suffering woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

ROAD WORK IN MAINE

Paul D. Sargent Tells of the State Highway Building.

PROGRESS MADE EACH YEAR.

Twenty-four Hundred Miles of Road Already Laid Out—Gravel Generally Used For Surfacing—How the Work is Done.

Paul D. Sargent, state highway commissioner of Maine, in a recent address before the good roads and legislative convention of the Automobile club of Springfield, Mass., spoke as follows about road work in Maine:

The construction of state roads in Maine presents a little different problem from that in any other of the New England states. This is partly on account of our large area which is sparsely settled and our low valuation. For example, our area is within 300 square miles of equaling that of all the other New England states. Our population is about 50 per cent more than that of the city of Boston and our valuation about one-tenth that of Massachusetts.

A MAINE ROAD.

A thin deposit of gravel, used in road building, is exposed in the ditch on the left.

In the matter of valuations I might say that we have only sixty-three cities and towns in the state which have a valuation of $1,000,000. We have 222 towns with a valuation less than $25,000 each, and three-fourths of all our towns are less than $500,000 in valuation. In many of our towns, especially the smaller ones, highway taxes alone run from 1 to 3 cents, so you see when these towns make appropriations for good roads they are really struggling to improve their condition.

We have, however, made a start in the matter of state road building and are making progress every year. In 1901 a state road law was passed which was general in its application—that is, it provided that every town in the state might have state aid in complying with certain conditions. The amount which any town could expend under this original law was only $300 per year, and the maximum state aid allowed on account of such expenditure was $100. Succeeding legislatures raised the amount until at present $600 is the maximum amount a town may expend and be reimbursed by the state for half its expenditure.

The first year of the law only twelve towns took advantage of its provisions, while last year, the sixth year of its operation, 222 towns built their state roads and received state aid. This year 256 towns are building sections of state road.

Our law provides that when a town makes appropriation and declares its intention to build state road the county commissioners shall designate in that town the main traveled thoroughfare, which shall thereafter be known as the state road, and that said appropriation shall be expended in improving some section of this road. Under this provision the designating state roads about 2,400 miles of road have already been laid out.

Up to the close of last year about $450,000 had been expended by the towns and the state in this reconstruction work, and nearly 300 miles of road had been worked upon. The work consists mainly in cutting down excessive grades, raising roads in swamps and low places, straightening crooked roads, taking out sharp curves and underdrainage quagmires.

In general our surfacing material consists of gravel, but in many cases only the natural soil is used for this purpose, especially if gravel cannot be obtained within two miles of the location of the work. Probably in forty towns in the state the surfacing material is crushed stone.

The work up to the present time has been under the direct supervision of the various boards of county commissioners. As the law provides for inspection of the work after it is completed and the commissioners have not in general insisted on one standard of work, there have been quite a good many variations in the completed roads, but progress is being made each year, and we are gradually approaching something in the line of uniformity. The standard which we ask to be maintained is for a road twenty-one feet wide which shall have at least twelve feet of hardened track, with earth shoulders to make up the remaining width.

Our general specification is for surfacing material to be eight inches thick in the center and six inches thick on the shoulders, to be screened into sizes and deposited in layers and rolled wherever possible. We find that such work where it is carefully and well done averages in cost from 35 to 50 cents per lineal foot.

GOOD ROADS APOSTLE.

Charles Thatcher Advocates Highway From Ocean to Ocean.

Preaching the gospel of good roads, Charles Thatcher, a resident of Wheeling, W. Va., is now traveling from city to city endeavoring to interest the citizens of the nation in permanent highways and primarily one or more great arteries for vehicle travel from ocean to ocean, says a Bloomington (Ill.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean. While he was in Bloomington his curbstone talks to the audiences, attracted by the unique outfit accompanying him, were marked by earnestness and enthusiasm. He is not working any grafting or advertising dodge. No one is asked for money, and he has nothing to sell. For this reason he is attracting attention and is winning supporters in his movement.

After a residence of some years in the far west he became imbued with the idea that the absence of good roads leading from the coast to the west was a serious handicap to the latter and that the possession of good roads would attract tourists in their automobiles and assist in developing the country. He decided to travel from city to city and not only try to arouse interest in the movement, but to secure signatures to petitions asking the president and congress to take some action. He will reach Washington late this year and will lay his petitions before President Roosevelt and ask him to use his influence to introduce a resolution in congress to investigate the project. Thatcher travels in a light buggy and is attired in regulation cowboy costume. His outfit is pulled by two western burros, and when he reaches a city he is always sure of an audience. He aims to attend all meetings in the interest of good roads.

His third road will tap New Orleans and thence via the southern tier of states to California. North and south roads extending from the great cities to the main highways are also planned. He has planned a road connecting Chicago and St. Louis which will pass through Bloomington and Springfield. He believes that congress should co-operate with the various states in the construction of these roads, thereby keeping the expense divided equally between the states and the federal government. Thatcher has traveled 7,000 miles in his unique tour of education and believes that he has inaugurated a movement which will not die.

"Worst Roads in America."

M. Worth Colwell, writing on the worst roads in America in the November Outing, says: Mr. Charles J. Glidden, the donor of the Glidden auto trophy, who holds the world's record for automobile mileage and who has traveled in nearly a dozen countries a distance of more than 60,000 miles, declared that never in all his touring here or abroad had he encountered so execrable mud road conditions as those in Ohio and Indiana on the road to South Bend. Speaking on this subject, he said: "Seventy per cent of the roads encountered on this tour would by any European government be closed to travel and marked 'Use at your own peril.' One of the things that this tour has accomplished is that it has revealed some of the deplorable conditions of the highways of a prosperous nation. The accidents on the tour were due wholly to the bad roads, which were unknown to the drivers. They were the worst trails imaginable."

How to Be Prepared For Guests.

Every housekeeper should have an emergency shelf. On the day when company unexpectedly arrives and you have a pick up meal ready it is convenient to go to the shelf for a can of bottled chicken, olives or sardines, canned beans, etc. Every can should be replaced as soon as possible.

ART OF CONVERSATION.

How to Talk in an Entertaining and Correct Manner.

It is strange that we are not all more proficient in the art of conversation when, if we stop to think it over, we realize that it plays so important a part in one's social life. The first point to remember is to try to moderate the voice. A naturally high pitched harsh voice can easily be trained so that eventually it will be soft and musical. Every one appreciates the sweet toned voices of the Englishwomen, and there is no reason why the voices of the American women should not be the same if proper attention is paid to their training, says Elizabeth Biddle in the Philadelphia Press.

We should also try to speak correctly, avoid all slang and provincialism and enunciate all the words as clearly as possible. If one wishes to be really entertaining in conversation she must not only have culture and a ready wit, but she must have sympathy, simplicity and sincerity and, above all, a real interest in her subject.

The following rules are safe ones to follow:

Look people in the face when you talk to them. Talk often, but never long, so as to give others an opportunity of expressing their opinions, and show a courteous respect for another's point of view. In arguments give fair play, and if the discussion continues beyond the limit of good taste let the matter drop.

Sometimes, you know, "silence is golden." This is unquestionably true in regard to gossiping.

"Talk of things, not people," is a safe rule to follow. And if one must talk of people tell of their good qualities, not their faults and failings. Indiscriminate praise is absurd and weakens one's judgment.

If you are easily embarrassed, you should force yourself to talk and become accustomed to the sound of your own voice, but do not feel obliged to talk incessantly. Try to be perfectly natural and at ease and always ready with small courtesies, even with children and servants.

A sympathetic and responsive listener is as much to be desired as one who can talk well.

How to Keep Stray Hairs in Place.

The little wisps of hair which cause so much annoyance on windy days can be kept in place with invisible hairpins. But few women know how to keep in the pins. Push the locks in place, slip in the pin, then turn back one point of the pin until the end touches the top. They are easily taken out, but will keep firmly in even the roughest wind.

How to Keep Pancakes From Sticking.

Add a tablespoonful of melted lard or shortening of any kind to pancake batter and you will not need to grease your griddle, thereby doing away with all the disagreeable odor of burnt grease about the house.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

ALL IN THE MIND.

I smoked a fifty cent cigar
Once on a time; but, shucks,
I wouldn't do it were I called
To spend my hard earned bucks.
It was a gift, you may suppose,
But as I puffed away
I couldn't notice it surpassed
My rope of twisted hay.

The man who gave the prize to me
From out his private box
Said, "Try one of my private brand
From blended Cuban stocks."
I lit it recklessly, as though
It were but common trash.
But privately I'll own to you
I'd rather had the cash.

It isn't in the flavor fine,
It isn't in the blend.
It isn't in the thicker smoke,
That joys serene attend
In plump perfectos o' that kind;
It's knowing as you sit
It costs some sucker fifty cents
And you are smoking it.

A man with educated tastes
May think he likes the puff,
But one with politicians raised
Finds stogies good enough.
And in these days of close expense
And figuring down fine
The average man prefers a weed
Marked down to forty-nine.*

*A box.

In a Face Preferred.
"Is the young dentist established?"
"No; he is still looking for an opening."

Winter Work.
The soft snow falls.
The wild wind calls.
And gray are lake and river;
The drifts are high
As mountains, high—
Their muckness makes me shiver.

I stand and rave;
My neighbor's pave
The wind has swept off cleanly.
I wonder why
It's only I
The blizzard treats so meanly.

I shovel snow
Until I know
A dozen tons I've lifted.
I'd rather dwell
Deep down in—well,
Some place where snow's not drifted.

Too Modern.
"See that dazed looking man over there?"
"Yes."
"He is a professor of modern languages."

"What is the matter with him?"
"He is trying to get a line on what some race track men are talking about."

For Modern Food.
"Did you study any of the dead languages at school?"
"No. I was going to, but I found I wouldn't need them to order pie at a restaurant. The waiters are all live ones."

They Chip In.
"Man is a creature of circumstances."
"Yes, but women are usually around behind the scenes helping to make the circumstances."

A Proper Query.
"Time flies."
"So I have noticed. I wonder—"
"What?"
"What his method is."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because it is so common. It is called "heart disease," and it is the cause of many sudden deaths. It is caused by a heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and over-talking to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, cover and a book that tells all about it, free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, on every address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every

CARE OF SKIRTS.

How to Clean, Press and Lay Them Away Properly.

Here is a practical plan for cleaning and pressing skirts. First, then, whisk off with a clean brush dampened in ammonia and warm water.

Any stain can be removed if rubbed out at once with a mixture of equal parts of ammonia, alcohol and water. After the skirt is thoroughly cleaned, brushed and dried lay it on the pressing table or board, pin each plait down in the proper fold, cover the skirt with a piece of dark woolen goods which has been previously dampened and then press.

To remove dust from silk skirts do not use a brush, but wipe them with a piece of velvet, which will not wear the silk and will remove the dust very much more satisfactorily than a brush. Silk or ruffled skirts should be fitted out with tapes sewed on the lower ruffles, by which they may be hung upside down. This prevents the skirt from sagging and the ruffles from drooping.

Gowns of delicate material should be put away in long boxes or drawers, each skirt being folded in plaits, into which it should fall when being worn. The bodices should be stuffed with tissue paper; also the sleeves and trimmings filled out with the paper.

Wash frocks should always be put away in trunks, boxes or drawers, whether they have been worn or not, for in hanging they grow stringy, and more easily affected by dampness and lose their freshness before they are worn.

How to Mend Matting.
Often in moving a heavy piece of furniture the matting on the floor will have an ugly hole torn in it, says the Chicago News. The torn place is usually where it is the most noticeable and cannot be covered with a rug. There is an excellent way to remedy this defect by darning the place with raffia of colors to match the matting straw. It is much better than threads and the work can be neatly done. It may be necessary to run heavy cords across the work through which the raffia is to be woven. The threads are served in place with a large darning needle. Torn places on the edge of matting can be remedied in the same manner. It is best to sew matting together with a loose stitch, using very heavy linen thread for the purpose, but where this cannot be done then use the regular matting tacks or ordinary tacks, placing first one side, then the opposite side, to prevent the baggy appearance which so often occurs. Never use a claw hammer to lift tacks from matting, since it invariably breaks the straw. Get an old blunt chisel, place it beneath the matting and tack head, and pry the tack up. This will draw the tack out straight and leave the matting unbroken.

How to Dust Furniture Properly.
Soft cloths make the best dusters. In dusting any piece of furniture begin at the top and dust down, wiping carefully with the cloth, which can be frequently shaken. A great many people seem to have no idea what dusting is intended to accomplish, and instead of wiping off and removing the dust it is simply fluffed off into the articles dusted. If carefully taken up by the cloth, it can be shaken out of the window into the open air. If the furniture will permit the use of a damp cloth, that will more easily take up the dust, and it can be washed out in a pail of suds. It is far easier to save work by covering up nice furniture while sweeping than to clean the dust out, besides leaving the furniture far better in the long run.

How to Clean Bronzes.
It is not a good plan to clean bronzes, as the polish is very easily spoiled, but if necessary nothing is better than cleaning them with water and ammonia, using a stiff brush like a nailbrush. Dry carefully after rinsing thoroughly. They should be carefully dusted every day with a soft cloth and a feather brush, and a little sweet oil may be rubbed on occasionally. To remove stains from bronze make the article very hot by dipping it in boiling water. Then rub it with a piece of flannel dipped in suds made from yellow soap, rubbing clean with soft linen cloths.

How to Wash Ivory Ornaments.
Wash ivory ornaments well in soap and water, using a soft toothbrush to remove the dust from any fine work that may be upon them. Dry them by putting them in bright sunshine, keeping them constantly wet with soapy water for several days while they are in the sun. Finally wash and rinse them again. If the ivory is much stained, but not very deeply, rub the surface with finely ground pumice stone and water, moisten it well and rub in the sun to bleach.

Woman's World

PRINCESS VICTORIA-MARGARET

A Young Prussian Princess Who is a Clever Artist.

Like so many other members of European families, the young Princess Victoria Margaret of Prussia, who in April celebrated her seventeenth birthday, is a really accomplished artist. She paints miniatures on ivory, and her work has been very highly praised by some of the greatest portrait painters in Germany.

Recently, in aid of a Berlin charity bazaar, this gifted young princess exhibited a number of her miniatures, including portraits of her parents, her three brothers, the Kaiser, the Kaiserin and of her aunt, the Duchess of Connaught, who before her marriage was, of course, Princess Margaret of Prussia.

Germany's ruler is something of an artist, too, and last Christmas he gave another example of his amazing versatility by painting six little scenes. These paintings have been reproduced on postal cards by tens of thousands and sold for charitable purposes. Now the widowed queen of Saxony and the Princess Mathilde are getting out a series of pictorial cards for the benefit of homes for consumptives, and all the illustrations of the series will be drawn by royal persons.

The Art of Talking Well.
If you quote a brilliant or clever remark of another person, always tell who said it. Do not wear stolen jewels of conversation. They will but make your own paste look duller.

Avoid saying the obvious thing which has been said by hundreds before you. "I cannot remember names, but I never forget a face"—how many times do people make that remark as if it had never been said before, as if they were unique in that respect, whereas the remark was probably made by Adam.

"I don't mind the cold, but it's the dampness;" "It never rains but it pours;" "Every dog should have his day;" "Which do you like better, Longfellow or Whittier?" "I think man and woman are each dependent on the other;" "If rich people are extravagant, it puts the money into circulation;" is the style of conversation that will cause people to flee your presence as they would the stagnant pool.

Never turn your readiness of thought and speech to a hurtful use. Do not put a drop of poison in the cup of cold water you hand to the world. If you do, you will have to drink it yourself some day.

It is almost impossible in these days of universal torture from the labor problem to observe the old rule of not talking about your servants, but if you find yourself drifting in that direction lift yourself out of it.

Throw it aside with some humorous point of view regarding it, and all men will call you blessed.

Avoid all references to your own peculiarities of taste, manner or thought.

If you have any marked idiosyncrasies, all your friends know it, and neither your own defense nor condemnation of your peculiarities will change the opinions of other people regarding them.

Neither will your own opinion of them make them either more or less pleasing than they naturally are. If you are in a thoroughly healthy mental state, you will not be conscious of having any peculiarities, nor, indeed, will you have any.

When you are in conversation with one person, do not let your thoughts or gaze wander to some more interesting person or group.

There is far too much of that form of rudeness. It is the habit that marks the social climber, a fear lest he or she may not be getting the best of everything.

Ancestry Book.
No longer is the girl with the matrimonial linen closet content that it should be full to overflowing with linen, fancy work and gifts of old family heirlooms until the time when the "prince to come" carries her to the dream house beautiful, where each treasure will have its proper setting.

But down deep in that chest—not so deep, however, but what it can be drawn forth to receive an additional note of interest—she must have an ancestry book.

These books come with blank pages and have fascinating little holes in the top to hold which to stick grandmothers' and great-grandmothers' names and dates of birth, marriage and death.

By putting one's finger in—like little Jack Horner's pie—you can pull out any plump of any ancestors called for and their lineage as well.

On the original page are places to write down the line of paternal for bears in dignified procession, while on the opposite page is room to tell all the good things they did in this life—never the bad.

There is also a place for coats of arms and photographs.

And the girl who at first laughs and blushes at the idea of it all will soon find it most interesting and will take pride in setting down all she knows and hears of family facts and traditions.

A woman who has five dear little sons has filled one of these books half full for each of them, leaving the second half blank and ready for the future mother of her grandchildren.

Will not the boys, unconsciously perhaps, choose one whose records will compare favorably with their own?

Is there not engendered by these means a certain feeling of "noblesse oblige" that can hurt no true American of today?

Need For Dust Sheets.
Every housekeeper should be amply provided with dust sheets, which can be thrown over upholstered chairs, sofas and other items of furniture when the rooms undergo their periodical "turnout."

Old worn bed linen is often used for this purpose, but when it is very thin and torn it ceases to be a protection, and the dust filters through and spoils covers and paint.

Calico and print are much the best materials to use, and the initial expense involved in investing in stocks of these dust covers is amply repaid over and over again.

Two widths of the material sewed together and hemmed are sufficient for ordinary use, two yards square being of ample size for an armchair.

When the covers are washed they should be well starched and ironed, the glazed surface being most effectual in keeping out dust.

For Shirt Waists.
There is nothing prettier for shirt waists than silk faced poplin, for the goods can be neatly plaited, tucked and made into practically any dainty shirt waist from the plain tailored one to the dressy affair with lace or velvet garniture. The white poplin has countless advantages. It sells for about 50 cents a yard and possesses innumerable good qualities which make it valuable to the economical woman. The material washes beautifully and may be ironed while perfectly dry and has a soft cashmere appearance, or the beautiful tailored effect is produced in starching the goods. It washes as beautifully as the fine white linen. Poplins of this kind may be purchased in various colors, though nothing quite takes the place of the white for shirt waists, and the madras effects with white figures are very dainty.

The Perfect Bride.
A man, however feeble and insignificant, demands from his bride the form of the Venus of Medici, the charm of Mme. Recamier and the prudence of Hannah More. Naturally he does not get these divergent qualities united in one flesh and blood girl, and his disappointment sometimes makes him querulous and unreasonable.—Sketch.

NORWAY CENTER.

Herbert Hobbs from North Stratford, made a flying visit to his parents and friends a short time ago.

Mrs. W. W. Holt is spending a few weeks in Massachusetts. We hope the neighbors will be neighborly now Mr. Holt is alone.

Mrs. Rufus Morrill is home from the hospital, a happy woman, where she had eighteen gall stones removed. Those severe head and stomach aches have all left her.

Edward Witts' family have all been very sick with grip but are improving. At the time their little boy died Mrs. Lapham, Mrs. Witts' mother, Ethel, her niece, and their little girl were in bed.

They have changed the usual program for the next circle which will be the 26, at the chapel as usual, but all are expected to bring a box or basket dinner. Mrs. Asa Needham and Mrs. Elton Brown will furnish beans and brown bread.

Why not look up the merits of the Cypher's Incubator. F. S. Clark of Paris will show it to you or send you a catalogue.

PARIS HILL.

Stanley Bennett has been at home for some time sick with chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Albion W. Andrews returned from West Summer, last week.

Mrs. James L. Chase and William Chase visited friends in Portland last week.

Mrs. Archie Curtis and children spent last week with Mr. Curtis at his camp in Oxford.

Mrs. S. W. Trethewy of Lewiston, an evangelist and a very gifted speaker will occupy the pulpit at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Mrs. Lewis M. Brown is making good recovery since her recent critical surgical operation at a hospital in New York.

Thayer and George Quimby, who have been at Elmhurst for several weeks returned to their home in Newton, Mass., last week.

Albert E. Davis has moved his business from New York city to Concord, N. H., where he will make his home. The family will spend the summer at Paris.

Fred Harding was seriously injured by the overturning of a load of lumber at the South Paris mill, Tuesday. One or more ribs were broken and some other damage done.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Case of New York and Paris spent a few days at Paris recently. This has been for some years their method of celebrating their wedding anniversary. They occupied while here the old Forbes place now known as the "Little White House".

Our sick people are reported as doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Edward Slattery whose hip was fractured by a fall on the ice last week is comfortable and Mrs. Edgar Hutchins who broke her arm about two weeks ago is able to be up around the house. Mrs. Clara Garland is very low and failing steadily.

A unique book has lately been donated to the Paris Hill library, "The Biography and Writings of Caleb B. Davis." The book is made of selections from Zion's Advocate on the life and works of Mr. Davis, second pastor of Paris Baptist church. The work was done by Mrs. E. F. Thayer and given to the library by Mrs. Thayer and Henry O. Thayer, of Brooklyn, New York.
